

The Center for Engineering Education Development (CEED) Internship program at Hokkaido University (HU)

● OVERVIEW:

Our internship program is open to any international student who is currently enrolled in university outside of Japan. We have been welcoming interns from more than 40 countries.

CEED supports interns throughout the application process. We handle visa application and housing as well. An introductory guidance including campus safety information will be held upon arrival.

● QUALIFICATION:

Applicant must be a student who is enrolled in regular course (undergraduate/graduate) at any university outside Japan, or at least must be a final year student whose next course admission is already approved – for example, the 4th year Bachelor student who will continue studying at Master's level and have received acceptance from the prospective course.

Please note that we cannot accept students who already graduated or are not enrolled in any universities.

● APPLICATION:

1. To participate, applicants are required to firstly look for a research team which suits their field and with whom they wish to work so they can contact their prospective supervisor at HU directly and get their consent. We recommend that you attach some supporting documents such as CV, abstract(s) of the academic paper, or transcript(s) while sending your email to let your prospective supervisor consider easily.
