Project Objectives:

The Center for the Development of Teaching and Learning (hereinafter referred to as "the Center") at National Chung Hsing University aims to enhance the public function of higher education, promote social mobility through education, and implement the concept of equal educational opportunities. To achieve this, the Center encourages students to form learning communities focused on interdisciplinary learning, diverse exploration, and professional field studies. These communities are expected to develop unique and creative learning models through peer group discussions, cultivating critical thinking, teamwork, and problem-solving skills across disciplines. This project aims to broaden students' learning horizons and foster a culture of autonomous, cross-disciplinary learning at the university.

Target Participants:

Students currently enrolled at National Chung Hsing University.

Implementation Period:

From the approval date to July 31, 2025.

6. Termination of Funding:

- Funding will be terminated if the actual number of meetings is less than six.
